THE RIGHTS OF THE CONSUMER

CONTENTS

Introduction
1. Consumer Protection Generally
   The Law of Contract
   The Contract of Sale

2. Defective Goods

3. Other Consumer Transactions
   Use of Materials When Carrying Out Repairs
   Example
   The Consumer Protection Act 1987

4. Guarantees and Warranties
   Warranties
   Legal Protection With Guarantees and Warranties
   Frequent Problems

5. Denying Liability For Products
   The Effect of European Decisions

6. Unsolicited Goods
   Civil Law
   Criminal law

7. Purchasing Goods at Home
   The Right to Clear Information
   Your Right to Cancel

8. Consumers and Credit
   Credit Cards
   Obtaining Loans
9. Withdrawal from an agreement
   Cancellation of Cooling Off period

10. Defective goods purchased on credit
    Inability to Meet Repayments
    The Consumer Credit Act and Extortionate
    Credit Bargains
    The Position When Purchasing Credit Bargains

11. Trade Descriptions
    Defences to Trade Descriptions Claims

12. Unsafe Goods

13. Package Holidays
    The Package Travel. Package Holidays and
    Package Tours Regulations 1992
    The Definition of Package Holidays
    Information to be Given by Tour Operator
    Statements Made in Holiday Brochure
    Liability-Terms and Performance of the Contract
    Alterations to a Holiday
    Overbooking of Flights
    Insolvency of the Tour Operator
    Consumer Remedies
    Recent Developments in the Law

14. Food Safety

15. Controlling of prices
    Price Comparisons
    Introductory Offers
    Comparison to prices
Related to Different Circumstances
References to Worth or Value
Actual price to the Consumer
Service Charges
Price Marking
Consumer Remedies
The Small Claims Court

16. Consumer remedies 89
17. Other Remedies 99
18. Consumer Law in Scotland 101

Sample letters of complaint

Useful Addresses
Index
INTRODUCTION

This book has a number of audiences: the general public and the student of the law as it affects the consumer.

The aim of the book is to outline the rights of the consumer when entering into a transaction with a seller of goods. Many people do not know their rights when encountering problems at the point of sale or after. What, for example, are your rights if goods turn out to be unsuitable or substandard and the seller refuses to let you have your money back or generally try’s to tell you that there is nothing that can be done.

There are three legal systems in the United Kingdom: English Law, which covers Wales as well, Scottish law and Northern Irish law. In practice there is very little difference between English law and Northern Irish law so reference throughout this book will be to English law. Scottish law differs significantly. Courts have different procedures and some laws are different. There will be a brief resume of Scottish law in chapter 16.

A main area which causes problems, and is always in the news, is that of consumer credit. At the current time, the Government has put forward a White Paper which seeks to impose a greater regulatory framework on all areas of consumer credit as it is feared that individual borrowing is reaching unacceptable levels.

Hire agreements are also covered along with the sale of unsafe goods. Food safety and general hygiene are also outlined.
The rights of the consumer are quite considerable and yet most of us live in complete ignorance of exactly what they are. The obligations on those who sell us goods generally are considerable, corresponding with consumer rights.

The primary purpose of this book is to educate the consumer and to empower that person by fostering an understanding of the responsibilities of the seller.

It is hoped that all will benefit by reading this book. The rights of the consumer are of paramount importance and it is one area where general education leaves a lot to be desired.